The Santa Barbara Independent talks of the Santa Barbara New just why this valley should ship her products to Santa Barbara ather than by rall to Los Angeles, or by steamer to San Francisco, does not appear very clear to us. As a matter of course Ventura is ready to ship her large surplus to any place that will pay the highest price. CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—[By the Western Associated Press.] Long before the curtain Associated Press.] Long before the curtain rose in the opera of Galatea and its afterpiece, Rubenstein's Bal Costume, at the Columbia Theater to-night, a coterie of newspaper men were in the foyer, casting furtive glances at every person who entered wearing the slightest approach to ministerial cloth, or the "regulation clerical cravats." Seventeen of Zion's watchmen had previously sent in requests for the seats offered them by the National Opera Company in order to obtain their opinion upon the propriety of the ballet. Double seventeen seats had been assigned to the ministers by the management, but, contrary to the somewhat general expectation, they were scattered throughout the house. The first genuine preacher straggling in among the crowd was Rev. E. Charles Bixby, of Hyde Park. He took three seats. Then Rev. A Rushton, looking much as he did as secreary of the general convention, yet with a kind of I-hope-Bishop-McLarenwon 'O-be-here look on his face, stepped in and look a seat in the section occupied by some Jefferson Park sports. Rev. Henry C. Perry dropped into a seat as naturally as if it were an amen corner, and afterward said he didn't believe the bishop would care, anyway. Then there followed much in the same style as school boys standing in a row waiting to interview the ferrule, Revs. E. O. Taylor, E. C. Bostwick, C. O. Kerner, Rabbi Rosenthall, W. Hartman, J. H. Malin, David Utter, T. B. Townsend, J. S. Thompson, J. Spencer Kennard and Rev. Miss Kalloch. The older veterans of the cross were conspicuously absent.

The first part of the performance was apparently unobjectionable. When Galatea, the open, was over, came the Bal Costume, the polonaise la Cossagne, dance of the Almees, Spanish dance, grand adagio, etc., almost without limit, seemingly. Owing to the scattering of the ministers' seats it was difficult to keep track of their deupants. It is known, however, that some of them fled before the brilliant ballet. Revs. Rushton and Bostwick were among those who did not remain. Those who did stay beheld as gorgeous a vision as John saw in the Isle of Patmos. Felicita Carrozi spinning around on one toe, Miles. Maveroffer and Vio describing curves that would outzele a geometri.

John saw in the Isle of Patnos. Felicita Carrozi spinning around on one toe, Miles. Maveroffer and Vio describing curves that would puzzle a geometrician in "La Cossaque." Mile. De Gilbert and Giure in the "dance Espagne," and an army of ninety-two pretty ballet girls kicking up their heels in every fantastical fashion imaginable, scarcely resembled a Sunday school concert. At the close, however, all present seemed to be well pleased, though they confined their praise, so far as known, to a vague commendation of the artistic efforts, not touching upon the fact that the costumes on the stage were of the regulation type, displaying all the charms of voluptuous limbs in due proportion.

Mrs. Howard's story is of atrocious brutality on the part of her husband. On the first of November Howard took a common branding-iron and branded a large letter "H" on his wife's person in two places. She was tied to a bed. After suffering several weeks from the effects of these burns Mrs. Howard told her mother what had happened, with the result that Howard was arrested.

Parliament for South Galway, were arrested to-day in the town of Loughren, county Gal-way, charged with conspiracy to defraud. The prisoners have been acting as trustees in conducting the "plan of campaign," and have been receiving from the dissatis-fied tenants the reduced rents refused by the landlords or the landlords' agents. At the time of making the arrests the police took away from Mr. Dillon £60, which he had ust received in trust from tenants. The four gentlemen were taken before a mag-istrate and remanded for a week. An immense Nationalist demonstration was held at Loughren to-day. Father Cunningham presided, and a number of other clergymen and Messrs. Dillon, O'Brien, Harris and Sheehy were on the platform. A large contingent of Lord Charricard's tenants were present. Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien addressed the meeting, and then opened Nationalist rent offices. Hundreds of tenants came forward and paid their rents. Suddenly the police raided the offices. Inspector Davis selzed the money, documents and books, and arrested Dillon. It is alleged that Dillon was roughly treated by the inspector. The police proceeded upstairs and took possession of more money and documents. They then arrested Mr. O'Brien and afterward Harris and Sheehy. The specific charge against them is that they were engaged in a conspiracy to induce tenants not to pay their lawful rents.

Suit for Mining Stocks. CIIICAGO, Dec. 16.—Edwin B. Palmer has brought suit against Joseph W. Haskins to recover $240,000, the value of shares in the Atlas Mining Company, which he claims defendant improperly obtained from him. This was represented by nearly $500,000 in shares, but defendant, it is charged, turned over but $150,000 worth, dividing up the remainder with other parties, with whom he had been carrying on negotiations without plaintiff's knowledge. The reorganization of our police force, to a greater or less extent, will be a measure that will naturally follow the inauguration of a new city govern-

A first-class force is necessary-one that may be depended upon for good service—one that will be a credit to disastrous to the "snide" projectors Los Angeles, which needs, and is entitled to, a higher order of merit, personal and official, in the guardians of its peace and order.

first duty of the Council is to select a suitable man for chief of the He should be a man of unquestioned probity, of unassailable integrity, of tried courage and iron will, of wide experience in detective capacities, of perfect self-control, of ability to command men, and one possessing zeal and impartiality in the discharge of his duties. Knowing his duty, he should know neither friend nor foe in the discharge of it. He should, moreover, be a man who can meet the old army requirement, viz, "an officer and a gentleman." This is a summary of qualifications which it may be difficult to combine in one person, yet it is by no means an impossible combination.

Such a chief of police being selected. he should have placed at his command a corps of officers composed of the best material it is possible for the Commissioners to select. There is plenty of good timber to choose from, if it be only called out and brought to the front and center. Where members of the force shall pe found have done their whole duty faithfully and well, subjecting temand well, subjecting them-cheefully to that discipline which is necessary to the efficiency of the body, and which should be every le and pleasure, they wil insubordinate, corrupt or cowardly, they do not deserve reappointment, and cannot hope to be retained through "influence" or favoritism. In the past there has been, at differforce, as well as against each other, on the part of policemen. Sometimes there have been reasons for opposition to the chiefs, not a few of whom have been men not entitled to that measure of respect which a head officer should command in order to properly control and efficiently wield the force under him.

In those cases where either the head or the subordinates of the force have indulged in corrupt practices-accepted bribes for conniving at gambling and other offenses against the law-trouble has invariably followed, sooner or later. This was inevitable, and the same result will more surely than ever follow a repetition of such official crimes. If carry on a blackmailing business on his own account, without the knowledge of his men, he is sooner or later found out and exposed. If he attempts a limited partnership in his dishonest operations, dividing with some of his men and not with others, the discrimination is resented, and exposure again follows. If he undertakes a general "divvy," he commits a business blun-der, for there is not enough to go around, unless the "blood" or "hush-money" is exceptionally "big." If the Chief is honest, refuses bribes himself and denies their acceptance to the members of his force, the dishonest ones among them, and the criminal classes good name. Thus it may happen that in honest head of the force suffers from injust accusations, and his efficiency is destroyed while he is vet an innocent

These remarks are general and not pecific.

The need of a good force, well disciplined, and of a capable head, who shall be fully sustained by the Commisoners the Council and the public in the discharge of his difficult duties, is too obvious to need further argument or elaboration. Non-interference in matters that do not belong to the police force is another essential requisite. Reform in this particular is demanded by the people. Hands off of primaries, polls, politics, and election machinery generally," except in the discharge of the policehould be the rule of action in the police department. If the force can be mproperly wielded in the interests of ne political party, it can be used to serve another. If it can be diverted to do the will of the leaders of a party, it can be made the servant of a faction of that party. If it can be ordered about by one ward boss or "smart politition," it can be commanded by another to do his particular will. And it is made the puppet of personsof political bosses, strikers, managers, or what not-and the public, the PEO-PLE, who are entitled to the full services of the force which they employ and pay, are made the sufferers, their interests are neglected, their property left to take care of itself, while the will of the political bosses is done.

We draw a picture, not of an actual, put of a possible condition of things in he city of Los Angeles. These things may come to pass if the people are not onstantly on the alert. Let them take time by the forelock and guard against future danger.

"Wash" Sales.

In the rush of events in prosperous Los Angeles the distinction between the true and the false, the sound and the unsound, in the matter of realestate transactions and other business ventures, must not be lost sight of if we would keep ourselves on a sound footing financially. Land sales that are not genuine, but "cooked," bring their own recoil, which is invariably disastrous to the "snide" projectors sooner or later. The deception cannot be kept up; the true facts are bound to come out, as is the true character of a pretender in business, politics, religion or social life, and the result is disperse. ligion or social life, and the result is serve to be. But where members of sale, and trust to quick sales at enormthe force are known to be inefficient, which yawns before them in case they ent times, not a little insubordination and conspiring against the head of the buying, and the long list of lots "sold" finds its way into the newspaper offices, accompanied by urgent requests from the thimble-riggers to publish "as

> These meretricious practices, as have already declared, are a serious injury to the business, to the genuine operators and to the city. Men of sagacity at home, as well as from abroad, "get onto" them quick enough, and the effect is to drive off investors, who otherwise would be only too glad to put their money into sound ventures conducted on business principles. It is not the matter of asking and paying high prices for well-located and a repetition of such official crimes. If the head of the force attempts to carry on a black mailing business of it is "snide" practices and fictitious sales that we denounce.

As to the publishing of sales that are not genuine, THE TIMES here and now gives fair notice that it will have no hand in this species of deception of its readers, if it knows it. We intend to make all practicable investigation of the sales reported to us from time to time, and if any are not genuine the sellers will hear from us as to their attempted frauds upon the public. The whole business of buying and selling real estate shall not be turned into a grand lottery scheme if the responsible men in the pursuit can prevent it. Now the district messenger boys of as well, are offended, and they seek to "get even" with the Chief. They conspire against him, and, assuming a virtue which they have not, they perhaps start stories designed to blast his

FRIESNER-TOWELL.

FASHIONABLE AND LARGELY ATTENDED WEDDING.

sive Scene at the Church-A Pleasant Entertainment-List Those in Attendance-The Wed-

The handsome Episcopal Church of St Paul's, on Olive street, was filled yesterday evening with as fashionable and distinguished an assemblage as ever gathered in this city, the occasion being the wedding of Mr. William Friesner, Superintendent of Schools of this city, and Miss Addie B. Towell, daughter of Mr. J. F. Towell, a retired wholesale merchant of Portsmouth, Ohio. The groom and bride both have an army of friends in this city, and the numman's duty as an officer or a citizen, ber in attendance at the church left few army of friends in this city, and the number in attendance at the church left few vacant seats in the spacious edifice.

Miss Kent, a young lady who possesses more than average musical talent, presided at the organ and entertained the expectant congregation with some finely rendered selections from the "Bohemian Girl" and "II Trovatore." Punctually at 8 o'clock the bridal party entered the church. They were preceded up the aisle by four gentlemen ushers, Messrs. O. W. Childs, Jr., Dr. W. L. Wills, H. N. Galloway and H. Fleischman. Next came two charming little misses, attired in pale pink satin dresses. Then followed a little five-year-old couple, relatives of the bride, Miss Louise McFarland, escorted by her cousin, Master Sam Bonsall. Miss Helen Gaylord, of Riverside, and Miss Libbie Silent, of this city, immediately preceded the bride. They were dressed in cream mult, trimmed with Valenciennes lace. Next came the bride, who looked as beautiful as a picture. She was led to the alter by her father, and was attired in elegant white corded silk, made with a court train and trimmed with exquisite point lace, the long filmy bridal veil of silk illusion—and orange blossoms half concealing her features from the admiring gaze of the assemblage, as she clung to the arm of her betrothed. Rev. Mr. Birdsell, who officiated, rendered with much lungressiveness the beautiful and solemn marriage ritual of her betrothed. Rev. Mr. Birdsell, who officiated, rendered with much Impressiveness the beautiful and-solemn marriage ritual of the Episcopal Church. As the momentous words were uttered which declared the two to be man and wife, the organ again burst into glad peals, to the swelling tones of which the procession, headed by the happy pair, marched down the aiste.

From the church the wedding party and, invited guests drove to the residence of Mr. Dan McFarland, on Figueroa street, where they were entertained until after 11 o'clock. The spacious grounds of Mr. McFarland's residence were festooned with Chinese lanterns, which reflected the glossy foliage of the trees and made the scene appear like a glimpse of fairy land. The parlors were a pretender in business, politics, religion or social life, and the result is inevitably injurious, not simply to the persons immediately responsible for the fraud (which would be no subject of regret), but, unfortunately, to the whole line of business, involving the innocent with the guilty, the genuine with the false, and clouding transactions of merit conducted by honorable men in an honorable manner.

There have already been developed to some extent, in and about this city, certain gambling, lottery and other "snide" speculative features in the real-estate market which are of no benefit to it and no credit to the authors of the same.

When the business gets down so that, in order to make auction sales of lots "go off" satisfactorily, it may become in cressary to resort to the "cheap and nasty" practice of offering purchasers premiums in the shape of chromos, bronze monkeys and bull pups with brass collars, you will see, gentlement speculators of the too eager and reckless type, where you have brought the business by your bucket-shop tactics.

The favorite "racket" with speculators of the curb-stone class is to get the favorite "racket" with speculators of the too eager and reckless type, where you have brought the business by your bucket-shop tactics.

A FIERCE BLAZE.

The Philadelphia Brewery Has Close Call. All day yesterday a man was engaged with a team, hauling crude petroleum to fill the 5000-gallon tank set in the ground in the rear of the Philadelphia Brewery on Aliso street. The petroleum was in use for fuel, being conducted from the tank to the engine-room in a pipe. It was hauled from the depot to the brewery in an iron tank, holding about 100 gallons, and thence wa holding about 100 gallons, and thence was emptied into the underground receiver. About 6 o'clock last evening the teamster arrived with another loaded tank.

Somebody told Joe Meyer, one of the proprietors of the brewery, that the receiver was nearly full, and he took a light with him to investigate the matter. As soon as he got over the big tank the gas arising from it was ignited and exploded. Meyer was terribly burned on the face and hands, his eyebrows and hair being singed off. He ran to his house, adjoining the brewery, and thence back to the engine-room, where he got some lard-oil to put on his burned face and hands. Meantime the iron tank, recently hauled up, had exploded, and the scattered oil, together with that in the underground receiver, was burning fiercely.

A shed used for bottling beer, which stood

Durning fiercely.

A shed used for bottling beer, which stood close to the oil, was ignited and partially burned. Had it not been for the prompt arrival of the fire department the entire brewery would have been burned. The water was judiciously applied, the fireman contenting themselves with wetting the adjacent buildings to prevent the fire from communicating with them, while the oil in the underground tank was left to burn itself out. Mr. Meyer was taken to his home, where he was attended by Dr. Kurtz. The burned surfaces were covered with the regulation sweet oil and cotton batting, forming a complete mask over the face and hands. The patient was not suffering so severely but he was able to give a lucid account of the accident.

Dr. Kurtz explained that, with this kind of a burn, the pain was not excessive at first. Without question, Mr. Meyers's injuries are very scrious.

The damage to the brewery was comparatively slight, as no buildings were burned except the bottling shed. Probably the heaviest pecuniary loss was in the oil. The policies of insurance are on the main building and contents, and the insurance companies are not affected.

Means Business.

The Sespe Oil Company has ordered from the East seventy carloads (about twenty miles) of four-inch oil-tubing and nine carloads of tankage, being two tanks of 35,000 barrels capacity each, which will be shipped to this coast shortly. Great developments may be expected in the Sespe district soon. The moving spirits in the improvement are Hon. Thos. R. Bard, of Hueneme; Lyman T. Stewart and Dan McFarland, of Los Angeles, and W. L. Hardison, of Santa Paula.

A bright fire was observerable in the direction of the Laguna ranch last evening, and some people supposed that it was a Boyle Heights blaze. It was probably haystack. There was also an unexplained fire in the hills beyond East Los Angeles.

A. J. Bilyeu was taken in about 10 o'clock last night in a very bilyeus condition. A search of his pockets brought to light a yenomous-looking 45-caliber Colt's revolver, a wallet with $40 in greenbacks, and a bunch of keys with a tag which showed the stranger to be a resident of Miles City, Mont.

THE NEW FIRE ALARM.

LOS ANGELES INAUGURATES GREAT IMPROVEMENT.

The Richmond System and Its Workings - Printing the Alarm Auto matically - List of Boxes - Direc

The fire alarm system just introduced in Los Angeles is what is known as the "Rich-mond Fire Alarm Company's Non-Interfer ing System of Fire Alarm. The works of the company are situated at Richmond, Ind.
As in the case of the electric railroad, Los Angeles has the honor of being the first city on the Pacific coast to adopt this system. which is generally conceded to be superior, in many respects, to any other yet devised. The first fire telegraph system ever introduced into public use was put up in Berlin in 1851. The first fire alarm telegraph sys-tem—that is the first system in which the electric current was made to telegraph the outbreak of a fire by operating an audible signal-was introdu in Boston the folwing year, and that system is substan-outbreak of a fire by operating an audible signal—was introduced in Boston the following year, and that system is substantially the one most widely used in this country at the present time. Since 1852, however, and notably since the introduction of the telephone with its multitude of wires, certain grave defects in this and other existing systems have been brought to light. The circuits heretofore employed have been a closed metallic, an open earth and a closed earth circuit, the first named being the most common. In case of an actual break in the line, either of these circuits becomes inoperative, the first wholly so and the last two as to all the signal boxes beyond the point of rupture. Another defect common to all the circuits mentioned is that the ringing in of two or more alarms from different signal boxes at about the same time will produce, by interference, false or confused signals. Moreover, the grounding of the circuit at a single point is sufficient to derange the working of the system as to all the signal boxes beyond that point.

It is claimed for the system under discussion, that it leaves absolutely no danger of false or confused signals from any of the causes named. Moreover, the system provides means for testing the condition of the line at premeditated intervals, and, in case the line is broken, locates the point of rupture. The system consists of a central office, electrical circuits, signal boxes, gongs and tower strikers. A novel and valuable feature of the system is that it indicates the location of the fire without waiting for the gong. This is done by means of a telegraph "ticker," resembling that so familiar to those who dabble in stocks, with a paper "tape-worm." When an alarm is turned in from any box in this city the number of the box is at once printed on the paper four times by this instrument at each of the engine-houses and at the police station. This is done so plainly, by means of short dashes, that there is no possibility of any mistake. Thus, box No. 32 would be designated b gongs is given, the number of strokes cor-responding to that of the signal box, thus: A signal from box 23 is made up of two strokes and an interval, followed by three strokes, as in the case of the "ticker" already described. This signal is also re-peated four times.

Thirty-five alarm boxes, with connecting wires and batteries, have been placed, as fol-

The following instructions are furnished to the public for their guidance in case of a fire:

"Upon positive information of a fire near your box, open the door and push the button once, and listen for the big bell on First-street hill.

"Never let the key go out of your possession, unless to some one to turn in the alarm of fire, and not thex unless you know the party, or know positively that there is a fire near your box.

"Do not open the door for any other purpose than turning in an alarm of fire, as you cannot withdraw the key.

"In turning in an alarm of fire the large bell on the hill will strike the number of the box. For example, box 2-3 will be struck thus: First, two blows on the bell at intervals of three seconds, then an interval of twenty seconds, and repeat the number of the box four times.

"Never open the box or touch the button when you hear the large bell ringing.

"Always keep the key so that it can be found instantly: never lock it up, but hang it up where it will be easily found.

"In turning in an alarm the gong in the box will strike the number, same as the large bell.

FLOWER APPROPRIATORS.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 15.—[To the Editor of The Times.] Having been a sufferer in silence for a year past, I now "rush into print" with my grievance, and call the attention of flower-coveters to this communication.

iention of flower-coveters to this communication.

Has the public an idea of the vandalism perpetrated in Los Angeles flower gardens by passers-by—usually by newcomers? I am not able to pick a bouquet for my house, or even to wear a breast-knot of rosebuds, because my carefully-tended little yard is stripped bare of blossoms by persons, who spen the gate, walk in, and deliberately break off and carry away everything that is worthy of notice. I am so frequently absent from home that I seldom eatch a glimpse of these marauders, but my neighbors see them, and I behold, on my return, the bare bushes. Of late the thefts have been particularly annoying, because I have desired to inclose a few orange-blossoms and roses in my Christmas packages for Eastern relatives, and actually every blossom in my yard has been taken?

has been taken!

If I had an abundance of flowers I would gladly give them to every one who would ask me courteously for them; but such freedom as this astonishes me. I find that many dom as this astonishes me. I find that many residents are served in the same way—not the owners of large and handsome grounds, but of small yards, where almost daily libriles of this kind make noticeable havoe.

Now, however wonderful it seems to the strangers among us to behold choice flowers blooming in the open air in December, does that authorize an act which they would not commit at home? Does any one think that a Californian—with all the lawlessness popularly ascribed to him—would depredate so boldly if visiting the East?

I should be glad to attribute the nuisance to small children, but I am reliably informed that the intruders are "well-dressed ladies that the intruders are "well-dressed and gentlemen, strolling by."

JOHN P. CULVER.

Los Angeles, Dec. 16.—[To the Editor of The Times.] The article in this morning's Times in regard to the appointment of city officers was the right thing at the right time. The following is from a special dispatch to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, dated Louisville, Ky., December 3d:

patch to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, dated Louisville, Ky., December 3d:

"Among the curious relies filed away in the Jefferson county, Ind., courthouse, is the indictment brought against Gen. Jefferson C. Davis for killing Gen. William Nelson at the Galt House in this city on September 20, 1862. It has been lying in undisturbed obscurity among the musty files, and has probably not been looked at for a dozen years, till it was brought to light today by one of the clerks, who was looking up some old papers. The instrument was rather yellow with age, and in form of drawing antiquated. It goes on to state in the usual way that the grand jury found that Jefferson C. Davis, an officer in the United States army, did feloniously and willfully kill William Nelson, an officer in the United States army, did feloniously and willfully kill William Nelson, an officer in the United States army, did feloniously and willfully kill William Nelson, an officer in the United States army, did feloniously and willfully kill William Nelson, and officer in the United States army, did feloniously and willfully kill william Nelson, and officer in the United States army, did feloniously and willfully kill william Nelson, and officer in the United States army, did feloniously and willfully kill william Nelson, and officer in the United States army, did feloniously and willfully kill william Nelson, and officer in the United States army, did feloniously and willfully kill william Nelson, and the Commonwealth's Attorney. "An affair of honor twenty years ago left no stigma upon a man's good name, and Gen. Davis remained in the army, and died in the service on the western frontier. His remains were brought to his father's old homestead, near Memphis, Ind., where they now lie buried, within twenty miles of this city."

The killing of Gen. Nelson was a noted occurrence, which is well remembered by all soldiers of the War of the Rebellion, but why the rencontre in which

It was nothing of the sort, unless our recollec-tion is entirely at fault, but a plain case of manslaughter, done, to be sure, under great provocation. Gen. Nelson had assailed Gen. Davis with great violence and vituperation of language. violence and vituperation of language.
Davis went away, armed himself, returned and shot Nelson dead. These are the bald facts of the case, stripped of verbiage and detail. Had the tragedy occurred at any time save in the midst of a great war, there is no doubt but the outcome of the indictment would have been different.

CATARRH.

THE TERM CATARRII IS APand adjacent parts, which prevails to an alarm ing extent and is productive of very seriou and adjacent parts, which prevails to an alarming exient and is productive of very serious consequences.

The most prominent and characteristic feature is a morbid discharge from the head, varying in its nature at different times.

In some there is an almost constant flow of clear, acrid fluid, but oftener an offensive, purulent or muco-purulent, greenish-yellow matter is secreted, which accumulates in the nostrils or drops into the throat, necessitating its frequent removal by blowing the noso or expectoration, and often by both processes, the amount of matter discharged and so fetis its clot. The nation is greenish-yellow matter is not entire to enter the constant dropping into the throat of the morbid matter from the head, and as a recumbent position naturally favors the flow downward, his rest is frequently disturbed from this cause. Many sufferers are obliged to lie with the head very much elevated in order to sleep with some degree of comfort.

In others a tough, viscid and offensive phiegm collects behind and above the soft palate, in the passage between the throat and head, adhering to the parts with gluish tennes, the flow disturbed for the parts with gluish tennes, the disconfort by drawing the mucus into the throat so as to eject it by the mouth.

Again, the offensive matter bardens and derosits itself on the membrane in the shape of dry, bard concretions, which are discharged by way of the nostrils or throat in lungs or dry, bard concretions, which are discharged by way of the nostrils or throat in lungs of dry, bard concretions, which are discharged by way of the nostrils or throat in lungs of dry, bard concretions, which are discharged by way of the nostrils or throat in lungs or dry, bard concretions, which are discharged by way of the nostrils or throat in lungs or dry, bard concretions, which are discharged by way of the nostrils or throat in lungs of dry, bard concretions, which are discharged.

giving rise to a stench which is really overpowering, and sufficiently fetid to poison the atmosphere of a whole room; and there are others in which all the secretions of the membrane are suspended, causing an unpleasant feeling of dryness, heat and feverishness in the head and nose—a condition popularly known as "Dry Catarrh."

The disease speedily extends to the air cavtitles of the bones of the forehead and face, giving rise to a distressing sensation of heavy weight or compression over the forehead, especially in the region above and between the eyes, and to a feeling of fulness, heat, irritation, soreness or pain in the nostrils near the root of the nose, as well as in the upper part of the throat, above and behind the soft hacd in some particular part, as in the table, on the top of the bead, at the back of the neck, or behind the orbids, and, occasionally, pain manifesta itself in the face of so severe a charrater that it is frequently mistaken for neuraleria.

The breath is always tainted and at times assumes an exceeding fetid and sickening odor. In some cases it becomes so revoltingly offensive as to render the sufferer an object of disgust to himself as well as to others.

The nasal membrane is thickened and congested, causing the nose to be stopped up, sometimes on one side, sometimes on the other, and often on both, giving rise to a disagreeable, stuffy sensation in the head, and occasioning violent and prolonged puroxysms of snecking.

The voice is weak, indistinct and busky, or greenies study sensation in the fleed, and ocsaioning violent and prolonged paroxysms of smeeting.

The study of the study of the study of a nasal character, displaying a sort of sniffing duality. Oftentimes there is a continuous hoarseness and discordance. There is also a sense of irritation in the throat, and frequent attempts to clear the parts of phlegm, producing the sound "nem," more or less forcibly.

In some cases patients complain of an unconfortable feeling of fulness, or a choky sensation in the throat, and in others of a distressing and almost constant dryness, for the temporary relief of which they have to swallow frequently. Others, again, speak of a constant bad or nauscous tastes in the mouth or throat.

The stomac was an adjuritable; the appreciation of the second of the s to drowsiness and sleep, the memory weakened and permanent impairment seriously threatened.

The mucous membrane soon becomes morbidly sensitive to unfavorable influences, and in spite of the utmost care becomes affected from the slightest causes, so that at last a breath of wind upon the lining of the nose or throat becomes productive of a cold, and gives rise to serious disturbances of the respiratory organs. Thus the patient is subject to frequent and repeated colds, each attack aggravating the disease by giving it a new impulse and involving a larger extent of surface than its predecessor. In this manner the difficulty spreads from organ to organ, invading the throat, larnyx, traches and bronchial tubes, in the produces of the larger of the larger than the production of the larger than the production of the larger
than the production of the larger those containing a mucous membrane, such as the stomach, bowels, kidneys, etc.

By the employment of proper inhalations in the form of medicated vapor (not steam or spray) we are able to produce immediate and direct action upon the diseased surface in the pharpyx and nasal passages, for air will find its way into the most remote and intricate cavities, where it is utterly impossible to make fluid applications. By these means every case can be cured.

Persons desiring treatment by this system of practice can use the remedy at home as well as at our office, and which will cause no lonconvenience or hindrance to business whatever.

Inconvenience or minimize to solver.

I have seen so many of these cases cured that I do not consider any case hopeless unless the disease has advanced to the chest and that both iungs are seriously involved. Even then the inhalations aid us in dissolving the aucus and in contracting and bealing the cavities, which nothing else can do with the same success. Tho very best references from those already cured.

CONSULTATION FREE.

Those who desire to consult with me in regard to their cases had better call at the office for consultation and examination, but, if impossible to do so, can write for a copy of my Medical Trentise, containing a list of questions. Address
